PLUGGED-IN?

In the previous newsletter, I wrote about the need to plug in. So, how is that coming along? There is great need all around us, even if it may be primarily outside the circumference of our comfort zone.

Sometimes, that means doing something different, or asking different questions.

Sometimes the needed starting point is our imaginations. Have you ever asked God to spark your imagination?

In our resource room at church, we have several books by Dr. Walter Brueggemann. He is relatively famous for saying that, in order to understand the plain sense meaning of the Scriptures, we need to use our imaginations, which are themselves a gift from God.

The Bible is a special and sacred gift, and often we do not bring enough of ourselves to our reading and hearing of it. That is, we often are:

- 1) Too tired to engage it, OR
- 2) Expect too little of the Scriptures, OR alternatively,
- 3) We expect a great deal from them, and thus are fearful of its effect on us. Yes, we want our lives improved; but, too often we don't want our long-term plans altered significantly. We want to be in charge!

Which brings me back to plugging-in. Getting plugged-in to the work of God to be done in our midst often requires changes. These changes benefit us and others in the long-run, but the transition can be difficult or painful in the short-run, and who wants that??

As it turns out, we yearn for this - not the pain, but the beneficial transformation. As seasoned disciples, we know God will help us walk through the pain, yet we often suppress our yearning. Don't do that! :)

Throughout the Old and New Testament Testaments, I see a great deal of yearning. Giving expression to our yearning, and especially allowing younger people to express their deep, divine yearnings is a great way to get further along the path of God's ways, and the Holy Spirit's path of plugging us in to the ways of God. Why get stuck in our own personal paths??

Yours along the Journey,
Pastor Charles

Sew N Social

We will meet on Saturday, June 6 at 9:30. We will practice social distancing and you can wear your mask. Our group is as much social as it is sewing and I think we all need the connection to our friends that we have missed the last few weeks. If you have a project that you would like to share with our group, please bring it. We will discuss any upcoming projects for the group to work on.

In August we begin the 2020-2021 study, Into the Light-Finding Hope Through Prayers of Lament, by P. Lynn Miller. From the study description, One of the foundational points of the study is that, in scripture, lament usually leads to hope. After crying out to God, the one who laments remembers God. And while that doesn't fix things in the moment—the injustice, the loss still exists—the lamenter is strengthened to face the world and to hope. This will be an appropriate study for such a time as this.

ADULT SUNDAY SCHOOL will resume as soon as Session gives the OK. In the meantime, find an online daily devotion or ask the office for a These Days pamphlet. And continue to check in with and give encouragement to each other.
